HATBAND HIT

And This Saved the Life of Baldwin Pinner.

A Lively Shooting Affray Near Julien Yesterday Morning.

A shooting bee took place yesterday morning on the farm of Mr. J. R. Caudle, near Julien, between Leslie and Lee Shipp and Baldwin Pinner, all colored farm hands, in which a dozen shots were fired.

It seems that the three negroes had engaged in a row the evening before and pistols were drawn, but they were separated before any harm was done.

Pinner, who is a day laborer at work for Mr. T. L. Yonts, came over to Mr. Caudle's yesterday and as soon as he met the Shipp men the difficulty was renewed. Pinner claims that both men opened fire on him and shot at him ten times, only one ball striking him. He returned the fire, shooting twice, but without effect. This ended the battle and Pinner came to town immediately and had warrants issued for the arrest of the two men.

Deputy Sheriff John Boyd went down to serve the papers and had not returned when we went to press.

Pinner was hit in the back of the head by one of the balls, but the wound is only a flesh one. The bullet passed through his hat in two places. When it struck the band it deflected, thus saving his life.

EXCITING RUN-A-WAY.

Country Team Takes a Tour of the Town.

An exciting run-a-way took place in the city Saturday afternoon. A team driven by Mr. Owen, of Sinking Fork, became unmanageable as he was coming down Ninth street and commenced to run.

Mr. Owen was thrown from the saddle mule and sustained several bad cuts and bruises, but was not seriously hurt. The team ran up Virginia, to Thirteenth, then to Main and back as far as Dr. Hill's residence, where the wagon ran against a tree and was stopped.

The lead horse was thrown to the pavement, but he was not much hurt. The hind axle of the wagon was broken, the only damage done to the wagon.

MONARCH MINES WEIGHBOSS

Shoots Will Woodward, a Negro Miner.

Henry O'Bryan, weighboss at the Monarch coal mines, near Madisonville, shot and perhaps fatally wounded Will Woodward, a colored miner, late Thursday evening. The difficulty arose over the weighing of the negro's coal, it seems.

O'Bryan gave bond and his examining trial will probably not occur until the final result of Woodward's injuries are known. O'Bryan is a brother of T. H. O'Bryan, a merchant at Dawson Springs.

TAKE DAWSON WATER.

Said to Be a Sure Cure for the Grip.

Dawson water is said to be a sure cure for the Grip, when taken before the disease has succeeded in getting to much of a grip on you. It is recommended by some of the leading physicians and its effect is almost marvelous. The Arcadia hotel at Dawson Springs is open for guest the year round and there are many persons now at this popular place, recuperating. Hopkinsville people who have symptoms of the grip should try this remedy at once.

Many of the stores were closed yesterday during the services at the Tabernacle.

SAM IS HERE.

The Tabernacle Meeting Opened Sunday With Three Services.

Big Crowds at Every Service and The Singing is Very Fine.

Sam Jones began a ten days' meeting at the Tabernacle Sunday morning and preached to a very large crowd.

His daughters, Mrs. Graham and Miss Jones, his associate Rev. George Stuart and the singer, E. O. Excell, all came Saturday night, while the evangelist arrived on the midnight train from Madisonville.

The day was an ideal one and there was a general outpouring of the people from both city and country. This is the fourth time in six years that Sam Jones has held a meeting here and his sermons are not different in style from those he has preached before. He may have picked up a few more slang words and learned some additional phrases of abuse and invective, but there are all of the characteristic features that have proved to be such drawing cards in the past. The novelty however has worn off and Mr. Stuart is regarded by many as the most effective preacher of the two. Mr. Jones preaches in the morning and at night, while Mr. Stuart conducts the afternoon service.

The singing is very fine. Mr. Excell is a great musician and assisted by a splendid chorus, his song services are very enjoyable to all lovers of music. Mrs. Graham presides at the organ much of the time.

The meeting is now fairly under way and will continue until the middle of next week.

In point of attendance it is by no means behind the previous meetings and the crowd Sunday was almost equal to the best days of the big Moody meeting, when the Tabernacle would not hold the people.

Give the Devil His Dues.

In his Sunday night sermon Mr. Jones stated that he had been informed by "leading citizens" that the city of Hopkinsville had during the last eight months made more progress towards hell than ever before in its history. At the close of his sermon Judge Leavell, who has done so much to improve the morals of the city, sought an interview and made it clear to Mr. Jones that he been misinformed.

There has never been a time when Hopkinsville was more law abiding than the present. There is less crime, less drunkenness and even less dancing, which Mr. Jones considers a terrible sin, than ever before in thirty years. The court records, the news columns of the papers and the testimony of the people will sustain Judge Leavell in the statement he makes. As Mr. Jones has been here about every other year since 1893, it may be that his various meetings have had something to do with this improvement in morals. Whether this be true or not, Mr. Jones owes it to the good people of Hopkinsville to secure accurate information before he makes statements that do an injustice to those who are working to the same ends that he is and with a good degree of success. We can go further and say for Judge Leavell that he has repeatedly fined persons for using indecent language on the streets and the effort to improve public morals in this respect has been so successful that Mr. Jones may listen closely to the language he hears on the streets while here and we do not believe he will hear any language uttered as offensive to public morals as much that is said in his own sermons. If so he has only to report the matter to the police and the guilty parties will be fined. This protest is entered in all kindness and we hope and believe that Mr. Jones will correct his statement, now that his attention has been called to its misleading character.

The occasion was not only a profitable one but was also a pleasant one to all who attended.

SELL THEIR WIVES.

Better Halves Can Be Purchased or Traded in the Klondike.

Startling reports regarding the extent of the wife-selling traffic of the Klondike country is the sensation of Vancouver. That a man can get a buxom, dark-eyed wife for 50 blankets would seem a sort of fairy story were not the facts so serious.

Robert Sled Dun, a graduate of Harvard, and formerly editor of the Harvard Monthly, has just returned to civilization after a 1,500-mile trip by the Edmonton overland trail to the Klondike.

From Seattle, Port Graham that Mr. Dun discovered the polygamous condition of society and the widespread trafficking in young women. He found that nearly all the clerks and employees had no difficulty in buying wives. And they bought them.

Sparkling Eyes, a noted Indian belle and the daughter of a prominent chief, was considered the prize of the northwest. From far and near came offers for her hand. Ponies, guns, trinkets, brass watches, yards of tin-foil and bales of copper wire were offered for a girl claim due to the maiden's heart.

But the grim old warrior was not to be caught by any ordinary purchaser. He wanted something besides personal property. He was ambitious for a family alliance with some man of social standing and influence in the community.

Thus it was that when Factor Fox, a big medicine man, a superintendent of white-freel employees, made overtures, with due ceremony and elaborate array of technicalities, involving the highest etiquette of the land, the copper-colored chieftain immediately became an eager party to the negotiations.

Then Factor Fox took the girl to his cabin, decked her out in beads and gorgeous trappings, with yellow handkerchiefs for her head, purple scarfs for her neck, resplendent brass rings for her ears and fingers and a peck of flashy big-headed pins for other features of her adornment.

She modestly appreciated her exalted position in the new life, and although she did not seek to ostentatiously queen it over the employees of the factory, yet she had an air of authority and self-possession that won her the respect of the boys of the settlement.

The old Indian chief must have picked up some new points from the whites, for when he found that his daughter was a jewel of a wife, that the finest thing on ice in the west, he demanded a codicil to be inserted in the deed.

He struck for more blankets. If Factor Fox had no blankets to spare the chief would take dogs, brass watches or money, but he preferred guns if he could get them.

Mr. Fox refused to be blackmailed. It should be explained that the copper-colored father had threatened to give a low whistle from the parapet of the fort that the girl would understand and she would run away. But the factor had treated her too well and she knew a good thing when she had it. She refused to leave home, she said she liked the white man's tents and his children, and for the first time during her painted career she had found domestic happiness.

The old chief was furious and made wild threats of vengeance. But the girl was true to her last love. When she looked into the big warehouses and saw great boxes of rifles, shotguns and barrels of copper lead, she changed her mind, and, best of all, several barrels of 40-rod whisky, she remarked to her oldest stepson: "White daddy, heap good." The boy gave an Indian grin, acquired only after long practice and said his father was the best man he had ever known. The wife then sent a clerk to warn her father to keep away from the fort until he could behave himself.—Philadelphia Times.

THE ISLE OF GLAMOURIS.

Set in the midst of a larger sea, is the radiant Isle of Glamouris. In crescent covers and in coral caves thick and swift the squad of the waves. Like the rise and fall of a tide strain out of the heart of June. And through the lovely labyrinth, the slender vine of the jasmine-flower, with its fragrance of evening dew, paved with pearls are the winding ways. And, with coral and chrysoprase, the deep long view of paradise pains. With sunlight flooding the arches tall, through the marble columns, the waterfall calls to waterfalls.

How shall we sail over the deeper sea To the radiant Isle of Glamouris? Just at the start, in the happy time, Then, forthwith, in the happy time, For Pledge, in his fair lady's hand, is a golden ring, Over the waves to the coral caves And the crescent cover of the blue sea.

O to come to that glorious Isle, To the radiant Isle of Glamouris, With never a dream in the brain of guile And never a doubt that all is true!

And ah, the noble company, In the radiant Isle of Glamouris! There, in the deepest, dimmest dell, Doth the fair enchanted princess dwell: There, from John's eye, she is set free, To the lit of his shining lady's eye; There, doth the valiant knight abide, And Roland, whom song hath glorified, Haroun, the Orient's splendid star, And the king who foremost flashed in the fight, The burning Brand Excalibur.

We have all been there in the crystal air, Where the sweep of the sky is far fair: We would all go back over the aspidochelone, Away from the world and its crowding care.

To the wonderful Isle of Glamouris!—Clinton Scollard, in N. O. Times-Democrat.

THRIFTY MRS. JOBSON

There was a furtive expression in Mrs. Jobson's eye the other evening after dinner. She sat oscillating in the rocking chair opposite Mr. Jobson, occasionally regarding him out of the tail of her eye. She was waiting for him to finish his first after-dinner pipe and to decide between a cigar and a cigarette. She was waiting for her husband to glance at her from the corner of his eye, as he would do when he was waiting for her to finish her first after-dinner pipe and to decide between a cigar and a cigarette.

When Mr. Jobson knocked the ashes out of his pipe, permitted the paper to slip from his grasp and began to look straight ahead and twiddle his thumbs, Mrs. Jobson was ready.

"I was just thinking, John," said she, in an easy, cheerful tone, "how lucky it is that I shall positively not need a single new thing this fall. Not a single thing. And you'll have a chance to fix yourself up so nicely."

"Been hearing that same old gag for a good many years now, Mrs. Jobson," grunted Mr. Jobson.

"But you shall this year," went on Mrs. Jobson. "Why, it is perfectly astonishing how nice and good the things I had last fall and winter still are. I had them out to-day, and I just made up my mind that it would be foolish for me to go and buy new things when I am already so well provided. All my last year's things need is a little fixing over. Now, that nice black satin skirt I got last fall—"

Mr. Jobson reached into his waistcoat pocket and brought out a pencil and note book. Mrs. Jobson ignored the action.

"I'm going to have one of those nice new Cuban boucans put on that skirt, and two rows of those pretty Dewey ruffles at the top. Now, isn't that a splendid idea? Let me see. It'll take four yards of satin for the boucan—"

"At how much a yard?" inquired Mr. Jobson, with pencil poised.

"Dollars and a half a yard," replied Mrs. Jobson. "And three bolts of ribbon for the ruffles—"

"At how much per bolt?"

"Dollar a bolt; and it'll be just the prettiest skirt you ever saw. I'll be able to wear it with anything. And that brown tailor-made suit—you remember that, don't you? Well, I had that made plain, because they were wearing them last year, but this year the tailor-made suits are to be braided, and I can have that suit made into the beautifullest thing!"

"At a total layout of?" asked Mr. Jobson, pausing for reply.

"Well, this year the braids is all figured and elaborate, and it costs a little more for that reason, but I can get just as nice braids as anybody would want for 75 cents a yard, and it'll only take six yards to braid the whole suit. It would be nice, too, if I could have the jacket reined with silk. The silk only costs a dollar a yard, and it'll only take three yards. And I could certainly economize by wearing a chamois vest with the jacket—it would only cost three dollars—and they are warm, too. Instead of having the skirt reined with silk—it's so expensive, that—I'm going to have a dust ruffle put on it, and it'll only cost $1.25 a yard, and only take three yards for the ruffle—"

"Just hold on a minute," said Mr. Jobson, and for a minute he made figures and added them up. "Go ahead," he said, "I'll be right back."

"Well, then, you remember that old cerise silk waist? I was just thinking this afternoon that I could have that covered with black net. Of course, it takes handsome net to go over cerise, but I can get it easily for $2.50 a yard, and it'll only take two yards. Then, with a yard of chiffon—only $1.50—I'll have an awfully pretty evening waist to wear with my black satin skirt."

Mr. Jobson did a bit more figuring. "Then, I was thinking that that black net skirt I've got will go awfully nicely over white for a waist. I was thinking of making it over a white waist, but you know, sitting so long, and I can get such lovely white satin for 83 cents a yard, and it will take three yards. A little jet would be pretty with that—for evening, you know, to wear to card parties, and so on—and it'll only take four yards, at one dollar a yard. Then—"

"Wait! I got that down," said Mr. Jobson, looking ahead.

"And that tan jacket, you remember? Of course, it's a little soiled now, and I'll have to have it cleaned, and the lining is rubbed, but I think I can have it cut down, with a long coat tail effect. I can have it re-lined with the new plaid silk—it's only two dollars a yard, and it's perfectly beautiful—and with big velvet buttons—three of them, at 25 cents each, and three smoked pearl buttons, at 50 cents each—I'll just have the prettiest little tan coat on this block, see if I don't."

"Um-m," said Mr. Jobson. "Anything else?"

"Oh, just a few little things made over, like those I have mentioned. Of course, if I could I would love to have for real swell wear, one of those new golf capes—but, then, that's 'new things'—but they're only $85 or $90, and after having all the old things made over, it might perhaps you'd—"

"Where are you going to have the old trunk made over?" asked Mr. Jobson.

"Well, you know that little Miss Sniffkins—that perfectly lovely seamstress and quick worker she is! I can get her for two dollars a day—"

"How many days?"

"Why, I could easily have everything finished inside of two weeks."

"Now, said Jobson, "if you will be kind enough to give your undivided attention to that cheap piece of literature you are reading for five minutes, I'll see how this thing comes out."

Mr. Jobson worked his pencil industriously for a bit more than five minutes. Then he looked up at Mrs. Jobson.

"Mrs. Jobson," said he, "you know that bum, olive-green winter overcoat that I've been disgracing myself by wearing in this community for the past five years—"

"Um," replied Mrs. Jobson, not cheerfully.

"I merely pause to inquire if you'll permit me to insert in this list an item of 30 cents for guita percha buttons to adorn that garment so that I can get another winter out of it?"—Washington Star.

A HUGE WATER BALL.

Strange and Awful Adventure Related by an Old Sea Captain.

"Speaking of the Portland," said Capt. Albert Spencer, inspector for the Marine Inspection Bureau, "reminds me of how I was wrecked by an ocean waterball."

"When the wind blows a hurricane, as it did last Saturday, it tends to level the water—to blow it smooth. Instead of the monstrous seas which roll so high after a storm, the wind blows the top of the waves off—clean off. And these, forming together as one would expect, would make a ball of water, accumulate into a ball of water which rolls with tremendous speed."

"I was master of the brig Yorktown in 1869. She had a solid pine bowsprit—as sound a piece of timber as ever grew in Maine. A hurricane came up. We hoisted, to thinking to outride the storm. The wind increased, swept the deck clean, broke the rigging and tore at the rigging. A man had not time to crouch in his arms and legs to stand up against it."

"My mate and I were peering into the oncoming gloom from a crack in the cabin hatch, when we saw one of these balls of water coming from the starboard quarter."

"Mate," I exclaimed, "if that water would strike us, we're bound for Davy Jones' locker, sure!"

"He nodded, but didn't say a word. We were both speechless after that, watching that ball. On the horizon it looked as large as a rising moon, but as it came nearer, with the rapidity of an express train, whirling, roaring, sending out clouds of spray like a Niagara, it looked like a mountain. Whirlpools and waterpots I have seen, but they were nothing to compare with that wonderful ball of translucent water, bounding over the surface like a comet and leaving a winding trail of foam."—N. How To Prevent Pneumonia.

You are perhaps aware that pneumonia always results from a cold or from an attack of the grippe. During the epidemic of the grippe a few years ago when so many cases resulted in pneumonia, it was observed that the attack was never followed by that disease when Chamberlain's Cough Remedy was used. It counteracts the action of a cold or the grippe and results in that other disease. It is the best remedy in the world for bad cold and the grippe. Every bottle warranted. For sale by R. L. "I have just recovered from the second attack of the grippe this year," says Mrs. A. Jones, publisher of the leader. "In the latter case I used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and I think with considerable success, only being in bed for the former attack, the second attack I am satisfied would have been equally as bad as the first but for the use of his remedy as I had to go to bed in about six hours after first attack, while in the first case I was able to attend to business about two days before getting 'down.'"

A foul breath is one of the greatest afflictions that a man or woman can have. An affliction not only to themselves, but to those with whom they come in contact. A foul breath is a sure forerunner of affection. It is a sure sign that more so if people only realized just what bad breath means. Bad breath is one of the symptoms of constipation. Some of the other symptoms are sour stomach, loss of appetite, sick and bilious headache, dizziness, heart burn and distress after eating. These things mean indigestion. They lead to dyspepsia and worse things. They are all with constipation, and constipation is irremediable because it can be cured quickly and permanently by the use of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They give nature just the little help that she needs. There is no case of biliousness, constipation, indigestion, heartburn, or any of the rest of the nightmare brood, that these little 'Pellets' will not cure. Send 21c in recent stamps to the World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y., and receive Dr. Pierce's 1008 page Compendium of Medical Advice, illustrated.

125 SOUTH MAIN STREET

WEDNESDAY, JAN. 24, 1890

Yesterday was the day Senator Gehl was to open his campaign at Lebanon.

Porter J. McCumber, Republican, will be the new Senator from North Dakota, having secured the caucus nomination.

The Senate on Saturday passed the Nicaragua canal bill by a vote of 48 to 6. Senator Lindsay was one of the half dozen who voted against it.

There are very strong indications that the Louisville Dispatch will not remain neutral in the contest for the Democratic nomination for Governor.

If John Allen, of Mississippi, succeeds in getting into the Senate he and Dewey ought to be able to influence matters a little in that stupid body of working off some of their jokes.

The suicides in Louisville recently amounted almost to an epidemic. The papers are at a loss to understand why Louisville is selected by so many as a place to quit the world. There are other towns from which people might leave with but little regret, while Louisville is a pretty nice town. For instance, there is Clarksville, Tenn.

The announcement that Ex. Gov. Brown will not enter the gubernatorial race, will greatly simplify the contest in this part of the State. Gen. Hardin is a strong favorite, unless it should develop that he is to be handicapped by the support of those clamoring for a return to the electoral law under which the state was stolen in 1895 and 1896.

It is now known beyond doubt that the yacht Paul Jones, a pleasure boat that left Louisville with eight passengers about the first of the year, was lost Jan. 6 near the mouth of the Mississippi river. Wreckage from the boat has drifted ashore, but the bodies have not been recovered. There were three young ladies in the party, one of them Miss Taggart, of Indianapolis, and another Miss Yocum, of Louisville.

New Uses For Bandana Handkerchiefs.

No one knows just how the bandana had come in vogue. Possibly the present interest in Southern folk-lore or the craze for negro songs brought it about. The girls really don't care very much about the source of this new craze; they are devoting all their spare time to hunting up genuine bandanas, the kind worn by the "old nigger mammy," in plantation days. Only the real article is "the thing," a handkerchief that is made up of squares of soft-blended reds and yellows, blues and greens, and that instantly suggests rich brown skin and kinky, woolly locks. And real bandanas are not easy to pick up. I can tell you. What girls use them for, are sofa pillows, mufflers, neckties and shirt-waists.—Demorest's Magazine for February.

NO. 52 TO CARRY MAIL.

New Schedule On This Division of the L. & N.

A new time card went into effect yesterday on this Division of the L. & N., which changed the time of departure of nearly all of the north-bound passenger trains. The most radical change is that of the Chicago limited, which has heretofore departed at 9:36 a. m. Under the new schedule this train will arrive at 9:09 p. m. The regular north-bound passenger will leave here at 9:45 a. m., instead of 10:18, and will carry the mail formerly handled by No. 92, the Chicago limited. The accommodation will arrive at 8:30 p. m., and the St. Louis fast train will pass here at 10:24 p. m. instead of 9:46. There was only one change made in the departure of south-bound trains. No. 51 leaves at 5:27 p. m., instead of 5:23. The Chicago limited passes at 12:08 a. m., the St. Louis fast train at 6:35 a. m., and the Nashville Accommodation leaves at 6:15 a. m.

The Gibson Girl Criticized.

Any one who has noticed carefully the Gibson illustrations understands what constitutes the approved carriage for a woman today. Her girls invariably have an erect figure, with chest thrown forward and abdomen in, flat-shoulder-blades, head back, and chin up. All of these points are necessary to a good carriage, but the type of the fashionable girl of the period, lacks one important element of attractiveness in a woman. She is not graceful.

The Du Maurier heroine on the other hand are graceful, however they may be criticised in other respects. If we place side by side sketches by these two artists, the comparison is instructive. The anatomy of the Du Maurier women is to peculiar sometimes as to make them appear absolute deformities when their different members are looked at in detail, but the pose is always graceful. Demorest's Magazine for February.

At Paducah To-Morrow.

The Democratic Committee of the First Railroad Commission District will meet at Paducah to-morrow to call a convention to nominate a Candidate for railroad Commissioner.

Brought to the Asylum.

Thos. Newman, of Muhlenberg county, was adjudged of insane mind and sent to the asylum here Saturday for treatment.

$100 Reward $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative power, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address, F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by druggists. 75c. Hall's Family Pills.

AN AGED HOMESTEAD.

Rather Remarkable History Is That of the Brown Place.

The farm on which Mr. S. M. Brown is now living, seven miles east of Hopkinsville, near the Fairview pike, has been in the family for more than 100 years, having been settled by his grandfather, Gravenor Stuart, back in the 17th century. During this long period there have been five deaths on the place. Gravenor Stuart died there in 1835, or thereabouts, two of his children died there near the same date. About 1858 a child of Mr. Petty died there. In 1880 Mrs. Jennie Brown died, making a total of only five during this long period and during said time there has been no serious sickness. Old Mrs. Jane Stuart lived there many long years, but at her death was living with Mr. Brown's mother on an adjoining farm, where Mrs. Cason is now living. It is on this place that Gravenor S. Brown now lives. He is a brother of S. M. Brown, and Judge Brown of this city. Gravenor is familiarly called by every one, is 79 years old, never took a drink of spirituous liquors in his life, never drank any coffee, never used tobacco, never had a personal difficulty in his life, never took a dose of medicine of any kind and was never sick a minute in all his life. He is known by everybody in the surrounding counties for his strict integrity and moral worth and accommodating habits. He is also an old bachelor and one of the ten Brown brothers who rode in our county fair about 40 years ago, and is one of the four that are now living.

Parsnip Complexion.

It does not require an expert to detect the sufferer from kidney trouble. The hollow cheeks, the sunken eyes, the dark, puffing circles under the eyes, the pallid, parsnip-colored complexion indicates it.

A physician would ask if you had rheumatism, a dull pain or ache in the back or over the hips, stomach trouble, desire to urinate often, or a scolding in passing; if it after passing, there is an unsatisfied feeling as if it must be at once repeated, or if the urine has a brick dust deposit or strong odor.

When these symptoms are present, no time should be lost in removing the cause. Delay may lead to gravel, catarrh of the bladder, inflammation, causing stoppage, and sometimes requiring the drawing of the urine with instruments, or may run into Bright's Disease, the most dangerous stage of kidney trouble.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great discovery of the eminent kidney and bladder specialist, is a positive remedy for such disease. Its reputation is worldwide and it is so easy to get at any drug store that no one need suffer any length of time for want of it.

However if you prefer to test its wonderful merits, mention THE HOPKINSVILLE KENTUCKIAN, and write to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. for a sample bottle and book telling all about it, both sent absolutely free by mail.

FOUR CASES.

Disposed of by Judge Candler Yesterday Morning.

Four cases were tried by Judge Candler yesterday. Will Gray, colored, charged with carrying a pistol, fornication and breach of the peace, entered a plea of guilty to the last charge and was sent to the work house for 25 days, the other charges being dismissed.

Will Jackson and Viola Wheeler, both colored, breach of the peace, each sent to the work house for 20 days.

Walter Hopson, col., b. p., dismissed. W. S. Winton, on a plea of guilty of breach of the peace, was fined $5.

GLAD TO GET OUT.

Volunteers Mustered Out and Returned to Their Homes.

A party of young men from Owensboro, just out of the army, passed through the city Saturday enroute home. They had been mustered out of the 16th infantry, regular army, after seven months' garrison duty, and were delighted at being out of the military service. There were about a dozen of the Owensboro boys, and on the same train were about 75 soldiers, white and colored, who had been given their discharges and were going to their homes.

Severe Suffering

Serious Case of Internal Ulcerated Piles Cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla—Able to Work for the First Time in Four Years.

"My husband was taken with severe internal ulcerated piles. He was apparently cured but the old trouble came back as bad as ever. He became very weak. After a while he gave up all other medicines and began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla. This medicine did him wonderful good. In about two months he was able to walk out in the yard. When he had taken seven bottles he was able to ride out every day and work a little and he had gained 40 pounds in weight. He is now about as well as he ever was and has been at work on his farm. Last fall he had sowed his own wheat, this being the first work he had done for four years. I think Hood's Sarsaparilla the most wonderful medicine in the world." NOLIE E. #### UNJUSTLY CENSURED.

The Louisville & Nashville Agent
Not to Blame for the Removal of the Telephone.

The Cumberland Telephone and Telegraph Company on last Thursday evening removed from the L. & N. depot office the free railroad instrument that had been a part of the telephone exchange for several years. Mr. J. M. Adams, the agent of the L. & N., was sick in bed at the time and the instrument was taken out without his knowledge, and without notice to him that such a step was contemplated. As the railroad company has been subjected to some unfriendly criticism for permitting the telephone to be taken out, this statement of facts is but just to Mr. Adams, at whom the censure seems to be directed.

When the present company acquired the telephone exchange years ago, the manager asked permission to place a free telephone in the depot for the benefit of the subscribers. Mr. Adams referred the request to his superior official, and the consent was given. The telephone has been there ever since until removed without warning that the policy of the company had been changed. The agent of the road was not even given a chance to retain the instrument by paying for it, but he was out of his office when the instrument was taken out. Whether the new manager of the local exchange was acting under instructions to take out this and other free telephones or acted upon his own authority, Mr. Adams says he does not know.

If any correspondence had taken place between the higher officials of the railroad and telephone companies, Mr. Adams had not been communicated with in regard to the matter. In fact, whatever inconvenience may result from the step taken must be laid at the door of some one else besides the railroad's local representative.

The KENTUCKIAN is informed that other telephones understood to be free or complimentary have not been removed, and it looks like the L. & N. had been singled out to be dealt with in an unfair manner.

Mr. Adams is an official who enjoys the respect and confidence of everybody in Hopkinsville. He is polite, courteous and attentive to business and has devoted the best years of his life to making friends for his company. He has pursued the even tenor of his way, often in the face of officiousness that amounted to persecution, and through it all has patiently striven to please an over-exacting public and no man in the city, in any calling, has more friends than Matt Adams.

The KENTUCKIAN does not know the Cumberland people's reasons for taking out an instrument placed in the railroad office at their own request. The telephone company may have decided that it did not care to keep a free instrument in the depot any longer for the benefit of its patrons. The company had a right to discontinue the service, but in doing so it should have given the public an explanation and assumed the responsibility and should not have placed Mr. Adams in a position to be misrepresented by those who seldom let an opportunity escape to criticize the L. & N. people.

Should the girls of the United States arise in their might and boycott the chewing gum trust there would soon be a financial crash in the new combine.

Amusing Story Told of a Now Prominent Frenchan.

M. Georges Clemenceau, who has been so prominently before the public in the Dreyfus affair as editor of the Aurore, told us a good story in the chamber of deputies the other day. Years ago, when he was the mayor of Marthe, and at the same time a deputy, he opened a dispensary in the quarter, where advice was given free, for Clemenceau is a specialist in skin diseases. One day he noticed that he had just one hour in which to get his luncheon and go down to the chamber, where he had to interpellate the government. He called his assistant and said: "How many more patients are there waiting?"

"Six," replied the man. One after the other had his case diagnosed, and Clemenceau, after another glance at his watch, said: "Tell the other two to undress at once, as I have only two more minutes to wait." One entered, and Clemenceau wrote out a prescription in the twinkling of an eye.

The last man came in as naked as the day when he was born. Clemenceau eyed him for a minute and then said: "You are suffering from no skin disease. What have you come here to worry me for?"

The man looked at him aghast for a minute, and replied: "Skin disease? I never said I had a skin disease. Your man came in and told me to undress, M. le Depute, and I did so. All I wanted to know was to use your influence to get my sister a place in the post office in Algeria."

Clemenceau smiled, took his name, and did use his influence—To-day.

DON'T USE BLOTTING PADS.

You May Make Public What You Wish Kept Private.

Said an official at the general writing counter in a big post office: "Be careful how you use the blotting paper."

Remembering that good blotting sheets could be had for a penny, I inquired "Why?"

"We have more inquisitive than ready-going visitors," he said. "Some who have little or no business to mind take pleasure in acting over to others. Lots of idle folks drop in here purposely to examine the blotting pads."

"Not that the examination is profitable to the examiners in the general sense, but look there—you observe the old gentleman in the blue pilot coat at the central counter? His hobby is to busy himself with other people's concerns. To-day he is inquisitive; the pads are new, and offer no amusement."

"I have seen him," (in a lowered voice) "take up pad after pad, place a small hand glass over them, and read what impressions late writers have left on the absorbent paper. He is a pest, but we cannot expel him."

"Sorry to say, more than one lady finds amusement in similarly treating blotters. One, in particular, lingers long in the vicinity of the writing counters. Carrying a small folding glass, she seems to be delighted in reading snatches of common notions which the pads have mirrored on their sheets. When disturbed, she pretends to be interested in writing, or filling a telegraph form. Yet, I warn you not to use the official pads too liberally." Pearson's Weekly.
